

Grazing Livestock and Water Quality: Options and Solutions for California Rangelands

Tuesday, April 27, 2010 ✦ 8:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Lucchesi Park Community Center

320 N. McDowell Blvd.

Petaluma, California

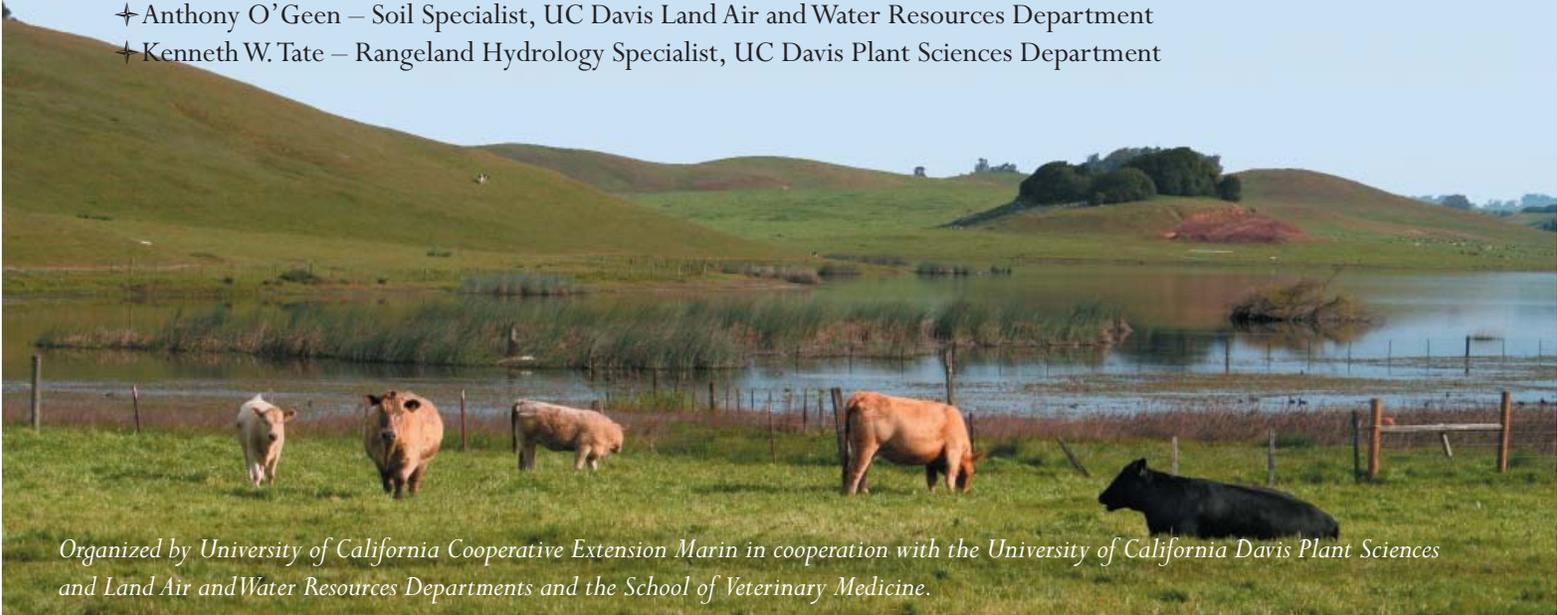

Please join us for presentations and discussions on the latest findings on water quality management in grazing livestock operations. The information presented will help livestock managers become the solution for water quality on California's rangeland watersheds. Ranchers, representatives from technical and financial support agencies, resource agency staff, and anyone generally interested in water quality on rangelands is encouraged to participate in the presentations and demonstrations.

Topics include:

- ✦ Rangeland soils, watersheds, and runoff generation
- ✦ California rangeland stream water quality conditions
- ✦ Grazing management practices for improving pasture and rangeland runoff water quality

Speakers include:

- ✦ E. Robert Atwill – Professor, UC Davis School of Veterinary Medicine
- ✦ Randy A. Dahlgren – Professor, UC Davis Land Air and Water Resources Department
- ✦ Anthony O'Geen – Soil Specialist, UC Davis Land Air and Water Resources Department
- ✦ Kenneth W. Tate – Rangeland Hydrology Specialist, UC Davis Plant Sciences Department

Organized by University of California Cooperative Extension Marin in cooperation with the University of California Davis Plant Sciences and Land Air and Water Resources Departments and the School of Veterinary Medicine.
