

Slow Money event in Davis

Investing in food values

When: 4 – 6 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 20

Where: Rominger West Winery,
4602 Second St. in Davis

Tickets are $10.

Please reserve your space

at <http://ucanr.org/slowmoney>

Woody Tasch, the founder of Slow Money, will speak on “Slow Money: Investing as if Food, Farms, and Fertility Matter,” at an event organized by the UC Small Farm Program.

Light refreshments will be provided, and wine will be available for purchase. Doors will open at 3:45 p.m.

Slow Money is a national network dedicated to investing in local food and agricultural enterprises. Its Northern California chapter has worked with local food ventures, including the Capay Valley Farm Shop and Soul Food Farm.

The event will include a brief introduction to current UC Davis research on values-based food systems by Shermain Hardesty, of the Agricultural and Resource Economics Department, and Gail Feenstra, of the Agricultural Sustainability Institute.

This event is sponsored by:

University of California
Agriculture and Natural Resources
Small Farm Program

